To whom it may concern:

This is to acknowledge that my company, International Debt Management, has had the opportunity to work with Ms. Leticia Molinero, on various projects, over the last two years. During this period, Ms. Molinero translated the documentation of our popular Debt-Pro software into Spanish. Her work involved the interpretation and translation of highly technical subjects in the area of debt management and finance. The clients for these products, or the audience of her work, include senior government officials in over 50 countries, as well as, numerous officials working in the World Bank and the International Monetary Fund. She has done an excellent job on each and every one of those documents. Overall, the quality of her work has been outstanding.

In addition to her superior linguistic and technical/technological skills, I have been very impressed with her professional attitude, her respect for deadlines, and for her time and project management skills. Finally, she is very easy and pleasant to work with. Based on my cooperation and collaboration with Ms. Molinero, I am totally convinced that she would be a great asset to have as part of any project team.

Sincerely yours,

Dear Leticia:

I would like to express to you my sincere appreciation for the prompt and accurate translation service you recently provided us. Without your quick turn-around and quality work, we would not have been able to meet our tight deadline.

Again, many thanks for your greatly appreciated work.

Very truly yours,

To Whom It May Concern:

Leticia Molinero has worked as a freelance financial translator for our company for over ten years.

She has been one of our lead English-into-Spanish translators for a number of demanding clients, most notably the New York branch of Deutsche Bank AG. In addition to our monthly ongoing projects for this client, such as their international publication Investment Management Monthly Update and communications with Deutsche Bank's Private Banking clients, she has worked on subjects ranging from commissions & fee schedules to Deutsche Bank's most cutting-edge financial products.

With regard to Leticia's computer and formatting skills, she has successfully (and beautifully) translated and formatted documents for us containing simple text and graphics in MS Word as well as significantly more complicated graphics and charts in PowerPoint.

Leticia works with several terminology management tools and has helped us to maintain our client-specific glossaries. As part of her ongoing professional training she has also just passed the required tests for ISO 9002 Certification.

It is without hesitation that I can recommend Ms. Molinero as a superb and highly qualified translator. She works under rigorous and often extreme deadlines and delivers consistently excellent translations.

If you should have any questions regarding this matter, please feel free to contact me.

Sincerely,

To Whom It May Concern:

This is to inform that Leticia Molinero has performed as GlobalWorks head translator in the translation of www.bancochase.com, the Spanish version of Chase Manhattan Bank's website.

Her performance has been entirely satisfactory, both in terms of financial terminology knowledge and software related issues. Ms. Molinero also had the initiative of developing a glossary for the translation team. Furthermore, she has always met all the deadlines of this very demanding project.

We recommend Leticia Molinero as a very professional translator from English into Spanish.
